About the TMSA

Since its foundation in 1966, The Traditional Music and Song Association of Scotland (TMSA) has helped to foster and promote Scotland's unique musical traditions.

The TMSA is a membership organisation open to all. Our members include music enthusiasts, festival fans, amateur and professional performers, tutors, academics and entire families.

The annual TMSA Event Calendar gives invaluable information about traditional music festivals and events in Scotland. It is available in print or download from our website www.tmsa.org.uk. The website also contains a wealth of other useful information, including local traditional music sessions.

The TMSA encourages both widespread popular participation and individual artistic excellence. Its branches provide opportunities for participation (as performer and audience) for people of all ages and abilities by running festivals, ceilidhs, concerts, workshops, tours and competitions. The local branches are each involved in sustaining the specific cultural traditions of their area, as well as those of Scotland as a whole.

Each year, the TMSA organises a national tour of the finalists of the BBC Radio Scotland Young Traditional Musician of the Year Competition – The TMSA Young Trad Tour. As well as performing in concerts, the young musicians meet tradition bearers and give workshops for schools and the general public. CDs of the 2004 - 2017 Tours are available from a variety of suppliers, including the TMSA website.

In 2016, the TMSA celebrated its 50th anniversary with a launch of 101 Scottish Songs in partnership with Collins Books amongst other events around Scotland.

In partnership with other traditional arts organisations, the TMSA campaigns to have the intrinsic value of Scottish Traditional Art forms recognised and to secure current and future funding for them.
